

Team of nine

"I have been working in the nursery since April 1960. I trained as a horticulturalist, specialising in tree cultivation. This year, 2007, that will be 47 years ago! A long time, and I am still learning. We used to do almost everything manually. Now we have machines that take some of the work out of the hands of my team. We are a nine-strong team, and two or three temporary employees help out in the spring. Together, we work 40 hectares of land. They are all hard workers who take good care of the plants all year round, so that they can be at their most beautiful in the autumn and spring, ready to be dug up and shipped."

Low drop-out percentage

"I am proud of the fact that our rhododendrons came through the first difficult year at our clients in good health. Our nursery
