

From left to right:
Prunus laurocerasus
'Caucasica', Cedrus deodara,
Pinus sylvestris 'Glauca'

Discover the possibilities of evergreen trees

Trees that maintain their green colour during the winter have more to offer than most people think. With evergreen trees you create clear highlights in planted areas. For example, an image that appeals to everyone is the winter silhouette of deciduous trees with their green features. Evergreen trees are also used to conceal less attractive backgrounds in both summer and winter. Trees as a screen, with tall trunks or as a hedge are extremely suitable for this. Furthermore, evergreen trees produce very little waste because they do not lose their foliage in the autumn. Think about these options for an upcoming project. Deciduous trees and conifers that keep their green colour are worth considering!

Quercus suber

Taxus baccata

Taxus baccata